

CHICAGO FIGHTERS
TO HELP NEGROESTWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY ARE GOING TO SPRING VALLEY.Mob in Full Control—Colored Miners
Warned Not to Return to the Town—Authorities Seem Unwilling to Take Steps Toward Ending the Trouble.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Three hundred negroes will go to Spring Valley, Ill., this evening to help protect the colored miners there. The rioters and the lawless still hold sway in Spring Valley. No arrests or attempts at arrest have been made. The mobs commenced operations yesterday by stopping work at the various coal shafts and during the entire day the streets swarmed with men and further depredations are expected at any moment. All day both sides engaged in the bloody riots of Sunday have been organizing their men and preparing for further displays of force. The aid of the law as yet has not been successfully evoked on either side and if the belligerent parties attempt to carry out the resolutions adopted by them bloodshed cannot be avoided. It has been impossible to locate the following negroes in addition to those reported injured, several of whom, it is positively asserted, are lying dead in the ravines surrounding Spring Valley on the west: WASHINGTON ANDERSON, aged 47 years.

ARCHIBALD FLEMING, aged 25 years.

SAMUEL JOHNSON, aged 30 years.

LEWIS MARTIN, aged 35 years.

ROBERT NELSON, aged 33 years.

JACK STONE, aged 42 years.

Several of the above are known to have been shot and badly injured, and two young ladies who came to town late last evening reported that they saw the prostrate form of a negro lying in the woods west of town. They made an unsuccessful effort to arouse him.

Marshall Hicks of Spring Valley says he is satisfied that one or more bodies will be found in the woods between Spring Valley and Marquette. A searching party is being organized to start out from Seatonville at once.

The immense whistles at the various coal shafts were blown yesterday, giving the signal that work would be done in the mines, and large numbers of miners turned out with their dinner pails, but were confronted on the highways leading to the shafts by Italians armed with rifles and the various small arms used in the riots Sunday, who ordered them back to their homes. The order was universally obeyed, though most of the English speaking miners desired to work.

At a secret meeting of the Italians held at midnight last night the plan of stopping the men from working was arranged; also a call for a mass meeting of the miners was issued, to be held at the lumber yard adjoining the Rock Island depot, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Over 2,000 men assembled at the appointed hour, and the situation was freely discussed, nearly all of the speeches being in a foreign tongue. The coal company was roundly denounced, and much inflammatory language used. One speaker said if the murdered Italian was a relative of his he would not stop with the negroes, but would settle it once and effectively with Manager Dalzell, of the coal company, who, he said, deserved all the blame, as he had brought the negroes here.

After an hour of general discussion a resolution was adopted giving the remnant of the negroes left until 5 o'clock this evening in which to leave the city, and to carry off their effects. Any effects left after that time will be declared confiscated and destroyed.

A committee was appointed to organize the Italians and see that instructions were carried out. Another committee was appointed to wait upon Manager Dalzell to demand the discharge of all negroes and to agree to employ no new ones for the present. The committee immediately called at Mr. Dalzell's office and stated their grievances. Mr. Dalzell, in reply, said he had nothing to say on the subject, and that it was a matter he wouldn't discuss. The committee retired with no assurances.

During the remainder of the day the streets were crowded with men discussing the situation. The situation is serious. The foreign element has declared that no man, either black or white, shall return to work until the coal company agrees to discharge every colored man in its employ, and also to hire no men of either race until idle men of Spring Valley shall be given employment.

The negroes now propose to return to their homes and continue in their employment in the mines of the coal company. They held a mass meeting at 10 o'clock yesterday in the Union church at Seatonville, where the negroes are rendezvousing, and voted to remain at Seatonville until their men were organized and then return to the valley. A committee of six was appointed to visit Princeton in the meantime and endeavor to secure supplies and the 300 repeating Winchester rifles that are owned by Bureau county and stored in the courthouse, to be used for the protection of citizens in case of riot. The Spring Valley Coal company sent its treasurer to Seatonville and paid the negroes there what was due them up to last Wednesday. The amount due since that time will be paid within a few days.

The county officials at Princeton when seen last night did not know what steps if any would be taken to bring the guilty parties in Spring Valley to justice. Sheriff Clark said he was discouraged in the matter as not one arrested a year ago for looting the stores at Spring Valley had been convicted by the courts. They were either let off for lack of evidence or on legal technicalities.

The citizens of Spring Valley are in such a state of intimidation that a criminal prosecution requiring local witnesses is of no avail. At the negro settlement at No. 3 shaft pandemonium reigns. Crowds of foreigners hocked about the streets at all hours discharging firearms of various kinds and throwing rocks against the cottages of the negroes. This was evidently done for the purpose of terrorizing the occupants and in this it was successful.

M'AFEE MURDER MYSTERY.

Tramp Under Arrest Identified as a Discharged Insane Patient.

Lincoln, Ill., Aug. 6.—The mystery surrounding the murder of Lewis McAfee on Sunday, July 21, near here, is explained. McAfee was shot dead on his porch, the assassin escaped, and a vigorous search resulted in the arrest of Charles King, claiming Kingston, Tenn., as his home. King confessed to being Joseph Leonard Giles, from Scioto, Harrison county, Ohio. Correspondence received has verified his statements and established the further fact that he had been discharged from the Ohio state insane asylum at Columbus. He has been identified as the roaming tramp in Menard county, this state, who demanded coffee from a farmer's wife at the point of a pistol and was chased away by the indignant farmer armed with a Winchester. Later he appeared at another farmer's place, and upon being refused food said he wanted to kill someone and brandished a pistol. The farmer fled and saved his life. Giles is weakening and will make a complete confession.

MRS. TALMAGE DEAD.

The Wife of the Famous Brooklyn

Preacher Expires Yesterday.

Danzville, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Mrs. T. De-

Witt Talmage died here at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Since the burning of the Brooklyn tabernacle last year Mrs. Talmage has suffered from nervous prostration and she has never fully recovered from the shock sustained then. Later she went to Europe for the benefit of her health, but while in Rome became ill with Roman fever and, accompanied by one of her physicians, returned home. She was removed to the Danzville sanitarium about a year ago, with Miss Daisy Talmage as her constant companion. While Dr. Talmage was away on a lecturing tour in the west last week, he received a telegram summoning him to his wife's bedside. He at once cancelled all engagements and hastened back to find that there was very little hope for the patient's recovery and he remained with her until the end this morning.

FIRE AMONG WHARF

Big Sandy and Carrollton Destroyed at Cincinnati—Loss, $100,000.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 6.—About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a fire broke out on the Big Sandy wharfbarge. It spread very rapidly and soon swept out the wharfbarges of the Louisville mail line and the New Orleans and Memphis line. Before 3 o'clock the fire was under control, but a number of wharfbarges were totally destroyed and others damaged, and two steamers, the Big Sandy and the Carrollton, were burned to the water's edge. The loss on the Big Sandy is $35,000 and on the Carrollton $30,000, not including cargoes. The loss on the wharfbarges makes the total over $100,000. Fireman Bennett was overcome by heat and is unconscious at the hospital. He may die. William R. Shaw, superintendent of the wharfbarge; Fireman Jack Crawley, and William Kibby were badly burned, and the fireman of the Big Sandy was also badly burned. The fire originated by boys striking a match near the barge.

Gang of Counterfeiters Caught.

New York, Aug. 6.—The expert counterfeiters who for two years past have been engraving and printing $500 and $100 United States gold certificates and flooded Canada with notes of similar denominations have been discovered by secret service detectives, and four of the gang of five were captured last night and are now locked up in Jersey City. The fifth member, the backer of the plant, was arrested, but escaped from the officers. William E. Brockway and Dr. O. E. Bradford were the leaders. The other members of the gang are Libbie Smith, a cousin of Bradford, and Sidney Smith, the engraver of the party, who is said to be Libbie Smith's husband, and William S. Wagner.

Find Stains on the Floor.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—The police claim to have found blood stains on the floor and walls of the Holmes Englewood building. The spots are in the room once occupied by Mrs. Conner as a bedroom, and in the bathroom. The trap-door to the secret stairway is also stained, and behind the baseboards more stains were found. In the bedroom were found a portion of a girl's wardrobe and a pair of trousers, which were stained. It is also claimed that those spots were made by blood. Chips from the door, baseboard and floor which held the spots and the clothing were taken to central station and will be turned over to the city chemist for expert examination.

All Is Quiet at Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 6.—The answer of the new police commissioners to the petition of the regular fire and police commissioners was filed in court yesterday. The hearing takes place this morning, and is in the nature of a test of the constitutionality of the new law under which the new board is acting. Not a ripple of excitement was noticed in the city yesterday, so far as the police middle is concerned. Whether it is a calm before the storm and a premonition of impending bloodshed is a question undetermined.

Violence Feared at Ishpeming, Mich.

Ishpeming, Mich., Aug. 6.—Mayor Johnson has made futile attempts to swear in special policemen, but none can be found who will serve. Rev. William Coad, chairman of the miners' union, professes willingness to assist in maintaining order, but doubts the ability of himself and other leaders to control some of the strikers, who are suspicious of outsiders. Mayor Johnson yesterday sent a demand to Marquette for the sheriff to come here.

Bloomington, Ill., Young Lady
Assaulted by a Negro Fiend, and May Die—Other Criminal News.

Versailles, Ky., Aug. 7.—Shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, W. N. Lane, a fence dealer, of Lexington, Ky., shot and killed James Rodenbaugh and mortally wounded H. C. Rodenbaugh, father of James at the Hotel Woodford.

Early in the morning Lane, who was drunk, arrived from Lexington and applied at the Hotel Woodford, of which H. C. Rodenbaugh is the proprietor, for a room in which to sleep off his drink. He was given a good front room. Shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon Lane came down stairs and, addressing H. C. Rodenbaugh, said: "The room you gave me is not fit for a hog." Rodenbaugh said: "The room was very nice until after you had been in it."

This enraged Lane and made him more violent. Just then James Rodenbaugh, aged 22, son of the proprietor, and a cripple, came in with a revolver in his hand, and, addressing Lane, said: "Get out of here; you shall not abuse my old father in that way."

Lane instantly drew his revolver and fired, sending a ball through the young man's neck, cutting the jugular vein. As James Rodenbaugh fell, he fired at Lane. His aim was unsteady, and the ball barely grazed Lane's left breast, plowing along the side. More furious than ever, Lane rushed up to the old man and at close range sent a bullet through his mouth into the base of his brain, and still another into his spine as he fell by the dead body of his young son. Lane was immediately arrested.

H. C. Rodenbaugh was a soldier in the Federal army under Col. J. D. Jacob, ex-mayor of Louisville. He cannot recover. Lane took a prominent part in the recent Breckenridge-Owens congressional campaign.

[WORK OF A COLORED FIEND.

Miss Mary Nicklin, of Bloomington, Ill.,

the Victim.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 6.—Miss Mary Nicklin, daughter of a coal miner of this city, is lying in a semi-unconscious condition at her home as the result of an assault made upon her last night by a negro while she was going home from church. The negro accosted her and made a villainous proposition, and, upon her turning to flee, struck her in the back, so injuring her that she did not regain consciousness for nearly an hour, when she came to her senses in a dark alley. The purpose of the assault was not accomplished, but Miss Nicklin was so severely injured and so overcome by the shock that it is doubtful if she can recover. The outrage has created intense excitement.

Shot Down in the Street.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 6.—Richard Sutter, a prominent citizen of Frankfort, killed Harry Keller in that city last night. Keller testified against Sutter in a suit that was being tried against the latter. The case was decided against Sutter and he blamed Keller for the adverse verdict. They met on the corner of Mill and Washington streets. Sutter asked Keller why he swore to a lie on him. Keller replied by calling Sutter a liar, when the latter drew his pistol and shot Keller threw the head, killing him instantly.

Desperadoes Behind the Bars.

Salt Lake, Utah, Aug. 6.—Coughlin and George, the slayers of Sheriff Staag and Dawes near Echo on Monday last, have been captured and are safely behind the bars in the county jail. The men were taken by surprise and surrendered without fighting or firing a shot. They said it was the first opportunity they had had to surrender without being shot down like dogs. The jail is besieged by a curious crowd anxious to see the prisoners.

FAINED BEFORE HE DIED.

Shocking Scene at the Execution of a

Woman-Killer in New York.

New York, Aug. 6.—Richard Leach was electrocuted in Sing Sing prison at noon yesterday for the murder of his mistress. He was weak, and almost immediately after he sat down in the chair he fainted. He was in this condition when the fatal shock was turned on. When the current was applied (1,700 volts) the victim sprang forward against the straps, when the cloth mask dropped away and exposed his face, terrible in its horror. His eyes were open and before the current had been on five seconds his breast heaved and from the lips there came a gurgling sound. After the current had been on one minute and fifty-seven seconds it was turned off and the doctors declared him dead.

All But Two Will Recover.

Flemington, N. J., Aug. 6.—The score or more members of the Methodist church at Quakertown who were injured Sunday when the church was struck by lightning are still suffering from the shock. The doctors who are attending the injured have hope of the recovery of all except Miss Minnie Fraze and James Hoff. Miss Fraze has remained unconscious since she was carried from the church.

Armenia Horror Unchecked.

London, Aug. 6.—The Daily News has Armenian advices dated July 29, which says: "The condition of the Armenians is worse than ever. Deliberate persecution, slaughter, and pillage of the Armenians are pursued with the same ruthless vigor and fiendish ingenuity as in former years. Unless the persecution is stopped the country will soon be in such a blaze that nothing short of Russian occupation will extinguish it."

American Mission Burned and Foreigners Fleeing in Terror—Much Property Destroyed—Minister Denby
Arraigned for Neglect of Duty—
European Powers Called Upon.

Shanghai, Aug. 5.—Fru-Kien province is in a state of rebellion and the American mission at Fung-Wook has been burned and the European and Americans have telegraphed for gunboats to protect the foreign settlement. At a crowded meeting of the European residents of this city speeches were made condemning the action of the Chinese authorities in the case of the massacre of missionaries at Whai-Han, near Ku Cheng, last Thursday, and a resolution was adopted to appeal directly to the European governments against the outrage. The resolution also referred to the inadequate manner in which China had dealt with the perpetrators of former outrages.

The Chinese magistrate at Ku Cheng waited for the completion of the massacre before appearing upon the scene. There are a thousand soldiers at Ku Cheng. It is therefore absurd to say that the authorities could not have stopped the massacre, which was evidently carefully and secretly organized.

The American mission at Shansi, near Hankow, has been destroyed and the missionaries are fugitives. The American consul has advised the missionaries in adjacent provinces to retire.

Some of the speakers at yesterday's meeting declared that they have lost confidence in the diplomats at Peking. United States Minister Denby and British Minister N. R. O'Connor are being especially denounced. The Americans desire a special commission under United States Consul Jernigan to inquire into the outrages in Szechuen. Minister O'Connor has assented to this.

It is learned that after the Ku Cheng massacre the mob looted the buildings.

London, Aug. 6.—The correspondent of the Times at Shanghai says that the missionaries killed at Ku Cheng were murdered by an organized band of eighty vegetarians. The ladies begged for their lives, promising to yield their property and valuables, but the leader of the band shouted out his orders to kill them outright. A corrected list of the victims is as follows:

Chinese May Have to Pay.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The statement from United States Minister Denby and Consul-General Jernigan that no Americans were injured in the attack by the Chinese mob upon the missions at Ku Cheng relieves the navy department from the necessity of ordering some of the American naval forces to the scene of trouble, although this incident will undoubtedly form the subject of another demand upon the Chinese government for reparation and indemnity for the outrage upon the property rights of the American missionaries.

Tries to Kill Durrant.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 6.—The first attempt to do violence to Theodore Durrant, on trial for the murder of Blanche Lamont in Emanuel church, since his incarceration, was made yesterday as the defendant was leaving the courtroom. The prisoner was in the custody of the chief jailer, when a wild-looking young man rushed from the crowd toward Durrant with the evident intention of assaulting him. The jailer threw him off before he could reach Durrant, and the assailant tried to draw his pistol. He was seized by two deputy sheriffs before he could aim his weapon. It is believed the assailant is insane. The seventh juror to try Durrant was secured at the morning session of the court.

Bold Robbers to Be Hunted Down.

South McAlester, I. T., Aug. 6.—The Christian gang robbed another store near Calvin last night. Marshal McAlester has telegraphed the department of justice to appoint special deputies to hunt the robbers down. Marshal Rutherford of the northern district has a force of deputies on their way to this place to co-operate with Marshal McAlester's men. The officers are determined to either kill or capture the entire gang.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—In a statement showing the advantages to be derived from the proposed deep water navigation from the great lakes to the ocean, A. L. SOLDIERS INJURED.

Cannon Fired as a Salute by Knights of Pythias Does Damage.

Springfield, O., Aug. 6.—A cannon fired as a salute from a Knights of Pythias excursion train yesterday struck a passing train carrying the Third regiment, Ohio National guard, Colonel Charles S. Anthony, commanding, resulting in the serious injury of a number of the soldiers. Three men were more or less cut about the head. Two little boys, "mascots," had their faces shot completely full of powder and were in great agony. Two of the soldiers were made deaf, probably by the explosion. One man was sitting with his face between his hands, looking out of the window and received the discharge full in the face. He is seriously burned about the face, head and arms. Some twenty more had their faces partly filled with the powder. The train stopped but a moment here, and then hurried on to Dayton, where the injured were taken care of.

THE INDIAN TROUBLES.

Present Condition of the Red Man May

Be Ameliorated.

Washington, Aug. 6.—General Armstrong, one of the members of the Dawes commission, is spending a few days in Washington. He says that the prospects now are that the commission will be able to make a deal with the company looking to future legislation for the settlement of the existing anomalous condition in the Indian country. Just at present the elections in the various tribes are in progress and the commission decided that it was well for its members to be absent in order to prevent the charge being made that they were there to influence the voters and secure legislatures in the different nations that were favorably inclined to the wishes of the commission. It is expected that the legislatures of the different nations will take some action this fall looking to an adjustment through the commission of the various interests.

Wyatt Admits His Identity.

South Enid, Ok., Aug. 6.—Zeph Wyatt, alias Dick Yeager, the notorious bandit, is still alive, but fast sinking. He has three forty-five caliber Winchester bullets in his body. When told that he couldn't live he made a partial statement, admitting his identity and requested that his father be sent for. His father, William Wyatt, lives near Guthrie, and is known as "Six-Shooter Bill." Zeph Wyatt, the bandit, is the only one of the Dalton gang who made his escape from the raid of Coffeyville, Kan. He has assisted in a score of murders and perhaps 100 robberies of banks, stores and private families.

Death in a Well.

Chillicothe, Ohio, Aug. 6.—Joseph Bingham and his brother-in-law, Oliver Benway, lost their lives while digging a well at South Perry. Bingham had entered the well. Not hearing him at work Benway called to him. Receiving no answer he had his wife and another woman lower him into the well, where he found Bingham dead, having been killed by poisonous gases. Finding himself being overcome, he signaled the women to pull him up, but before reaching the top he fell from the bucket and was killed. Both leave large families.

Indians May Need Protection.

Washington, Aug. 6.—A telegram received from Gen. Coppinger's headquarters says that three scouts from the Black Rock Creek country report that all is quiet among the Indians. Private advices at the department say that there is more danger from the white men attacking the Indians than from the Indians taking the offensive.

Cloudburst Ruins the River.

Calettsburg, Ky., Aug. 6.—A singular and costly matter was a tremendous cloudburst followed by heavy rains in the upper Big Sandy valley last week. The flood literally ruined the river. It is so full of sandbars no boats can run, and the lumber business is at a standstill. At this point a bar has been formed entirely across the Ohio river and boats find it difficult to pass. It is feared the entire lumber business will be removed to Ashland, Ky.

Coal Miners Get an Increase.

Brazil, Ind., Aug. 6.—The block coal miners of this district have been assured of a 5-cent increase as a result of the victory won by the bituminous miners in Pennsylvania. WHITFORD GOES UP PIKE'S PEAK COG

MILTON MAN CLIMBS MOUNTAINS IN A TRAIN.

Graphic Account of the Ascent Past Frog Rock, Dromedary's Back and National Tunnel to the Land of Perpetual Snow—Ulsters Needed in July.

Some members of our party spent about five days at Colorado Springs and were occupied most of the time in visiting at the Garden of the Gods. Manitou with its famous springs, several canyons in the vicinity and the sides and tops of the lower mountains which girt Pike's Peak on the east. All of ascended this bold monarch of the Rockies. It seems to stand out in front of the first range and in a clear atmosphere could be seen at least a hundred and fifty miles distant on the plains. It rises nearly 8,000 feet above the city near its base and its summit is over 14,000 feet above the ocean. The best view of it is obtained twenty to thirty miles away to the east and the south where the vision is not so much obstructed by the foot hills that surround it. Late one afternoon when away to the northeast we saw it in its splendid majesty. In this direction the intervening hills or mountains are the lowest. Dense white clouds in three strata lay across the side of it, revealing above them its peak a third of the way down. The whole mountain appeared to be lifted much higher into the heavens and the contrast between the color of the clouds and its gray summit and the deep green of its wooded base was most impressive.

Choice of Four Methods.

There are four methods of reaching the top of the peak. The most primitive is on foot along the old trails or up the railway bed. This is the most exhausting and occupies from six to ten hours, according to the strength of the climber. The three others are by riding on donkeys in carriages drawn by horses up a well built road sixteen miles in length and by being pushed in a car by a steam engine up a cog-wheel track. The last takes an hour and one-half, and is by far the most comfortable. Still the usual fare for the round trip $5.00 compels many to use the cheapest methods on foot. This has its compensation in enabling one to stop at points on the way and study and enjoy the scenery. And others prefer the ascent in carriages, as they visit places in the mountain not accessible by the railway and form more select parties.

The cog wheel track is slightly over nine miles in length and its maximum grade at several points is twenty-five per cent. It rises from a snug little canyon, along side of a creek dashing down a narrow channel between large boulders, up steep inclines along granite precipices, through passes between huge detached rocks, across somewhat level parks, above timber line, and in excavations in the broken stones which crown the summit. The ride is first among the pines and spruces near the bottom, next among the birches, and last, among the stunted cedars. Above these thin grasses grow on the slopes. Curious rock formations are pointed out along the road. Some of these are called the Lone Fisherman, a National Tunnel, Frog Rock, Plum Pudding, the Turtle, Lizard Rock, Dromedary's Back, Ek's Head, Devil Slide, and Pinacle Rock. You meet several falls, one of which is named Minnehaha, though it bears slight resemblance to the original. Small cottages in sheltered nooks are passed.

Water For Colorado Springs.

Two reservoirs of water, one a lake covering 110 acres, are seen below you near the timber line of the mountain. These furnish the supply for the houses of Colorado Springs, being conveyed in thick iron pipes, many miles. The boys on the train were interested in watching the many little rats dodge into their hiding places. Scores of weary excursionists, composed of boys, young men and women, some quite old, had halted by the track to rest in their climbing on foot. The ride at times is comparatively slow and at others quite rapid. Frequently the car takes on a shaking movement back and forth from the racking action of the cog-wheel of the engine. There is a system of seven distinct and separate brakes on each train. The day we were there the road made five trips. Sometimes it adds one to these toward evening, to give a sight of the shadow of the mountain stretching at sunset rapidly over the plain. The car being crowded on its ascent, we were invited by the conductor to be seated outside on the front platform. Our position gave us the best advantage to observe the wonderful scenery on both sides of the track and ahead of the train. Our seat companion was an employee of the road, who had worked for several years in various places in the mountains. He noted for us the points of interest along the way, grassy spots where a flock of sheep had been accustomed to feed, resorts of the Rocky mountain lion, forests where pine trees had been cut into logs, and places among the rocks where belated climbers had camped for the night and warmed themselves by fires from the fallen timbers. From a view, at least two-thirds of the route up, the barren summit rises in stern and forbidding grandeur almost immediately before you.

At the Summit of the Peak.

The train rounds a sharp curve, and lands you at the peak, looking eastward over the wide plain. You hurriedly take in the surroundings close to you. Here is a quiet level area occupying about twenty acres and almost circular in form. Here is a hotel, a government signal station, and some tents in process of erection by the geodetic survey of the United States. The party in charge of the last have worked from the Pacific, and expect to meet here a party in the same work from the Atlantic. They said that this gigantic enterprise, which fixed the latitude and longitude of the important places of our country and the height of these places above the ocean, and which has been prosecuted many years, ends here or in this region the coming fall. They pointed out the other mountain peaks on which they have located stations of observation, eighty to a hundred miles away. These stations communicate with each other in favorable weather by flashes of sunlight from small mirrors. At La Junta, one hundred seven miles distant by railway in almost a straight line, a member of our tourist party saw on a subsequent morning, the flashing of one of the mirrors from the point occupied by these tents. Here are also drifts of snow, and some persons are amusing themselves in the last part of July by pelting each other with balls made from it. It is intensely cold, and a thick heavy ulster scarcely keeps you warm, though you walk about as briskly as the high altitude will permit. Mosses and tiny blue flowers are gathered among the rocks and close to the snow, and made into bouquets.

Thriving Postal Business.

Postal trade and letters are written to loved ones in distant homes by tourists, as they wait in hotel for the descending train. The view away from the mountains in all directions is surpassingly impressive, and at first is so overpowering as to be painful. A feeling of dread comes over one akin to what he experiences in seeing the dark, restless and boundless ocean from some conspicuous highland just beneath you. Mountains that tower thousands of feet above you when at their base, are dwarfed into insignificant elevation. Colorado Springs with its steep streets and square blocks of houses and lots appears like gigantic checker board. The eastern limits of the plains where Lieut. Pike saw the peak taking his name and from which he traveled with his small detachment of the army ten days before reaching the mountains, lie in the distant horizon. To the south, west and north are continuous ranges and sunny heights, some of them a hundred miles away. There are pointed out to you the Spanish Peaks and the Ratons mountains toward New Mexico, the high saw like ridge of the Sangre de Cristo Range to the northwest, and then round to Long and Gray peaks to the northwest. As you sweep round in this part of the circle your eye rests on Ouray at Marshall Pass, over all the lower and thickly crowded elevations of the gold region of Cripple Creek and then to the grand mountains that border the Arkansas Valley near Leadville. We are told that at least 40,000 square miles of the earth's surface is in sight. We do not doubt the statement.

Still the vision does not attract and hold us like that from some humbler height. At the close of an hour we are anxious and ready to descend to the streets and pleasant resorts of Manitou.

COST .0184 A POUND TO MAKE BUTTER

TIFFANY CREAMERY MAKES AN EXCELLENT SHOW.

181,954 Pounds of Milk Used in Two Weeks—And Patrons Got 70 Cents a Hundred—Little Grain Moving—War on Chinch Bugs—Sorghum Factory in Prospect.

Tiffany, Aug. 6.—The payment of the Tiffany creamery for the past two weeks of July, was an average of 70 cents per one hundred pound of milk. The amount of milk received for that time was 181,954 pounds. The cost of making a pound of butter for the first ten months the creamery was in operation was .0184. Barley is yielding about twelve bushels to the acre, and oats twenty to thirty. Tobacco looks poorly, and there is no fruit. A large amount of coal is being sold for threshing at the station, and grain is beginning to come in. Barley is not moving, and commission men report the market dull and uncertain. They advise farmers to hold. There will probably be a sorghum factory near the station this fall. Mr. Wilkes and Mr. Reeder have each put up new houses and Mr. Joiner a new barn in the town of La Prairie this year. The town of La Prairie has increased in population over one hundred in the last five years. Miss Blayser and Miss Williams teach in the Shopiere schools the coming year. Miss Alice Smith teaches in the Beloit school. A report is current that many deaths from black diphtheria occurred in Clinton, also that the funerals were public and no precautions were taken to prevent the spread of the disease. Whether such statements are true or not, people believe them and are avoiding that village as much as possible. The last services over the remains of P. V. Bacon were held in the Congregational church on Sunday on Sunday last, Mr. Dexter of Clinton conducting the services. Mr. Bacon had been for some time an invalid and nearly helpless from a paralytic stroke and his death was not unexpected. He had been a resident of this section for some forty years and a member of the Congregational church during a large portion of the time. As a neighbor and friend he was highly respected by all who knew him. The many friends of Eli Burgess will regret to hear of his death which occurred on Sunday from diphtheria. Hopes had been entertained that he would recover but the terrible disease was too powerful. Mr. Burgess leaves a family to mourn his death.

To Write Upon the Sea of Agony

Is what people troubled with rheumatic symptoms can fairly expect, if they take no efficient means to check the rapidly growing malady which, if should never be forgotten, has a tendency to attack the heart and terminate life. The testimony, public and professional, is overwhelmingly convincing and convincing that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is both a sovereign preventive and curative of rheumatism. It completely expurgates from the blood the acid principle which, attacking the tissues surrounding the joints and muscles, causes such excruciating pain. The Bitters promotes the action of the kidneys, bladder, stomach and bowels, and remedies malaria, nervousness and debility. It also induces appetite and sound repose, hastens convalescence after exhausting malady and mitigates the infirmities of age. Take it daily at regular intervals, and confidently expect the best of results.

Farmers Alarmed Over Diphtheria, But Village Folk Allege Exaggeration.

Farmers about the county are considerably alarmed over Clinton diphtheria, but word reaches the Beloit Free Press that the scare has been exaggerated. Stone's hotel has not been quarantined. There have been two deaths in the village, as said, but some declare that the disease was nothing worse than diphtheretic sore throat.

Among Dr. Wray's many Rockford patients is Mr. F. A. Buckingham, whose letter appears below. Mr. Buckingham was so grateful to the doctor that he wrote and published this letter in the Rockford Star last Sunday morning, paying for it himself. Dr. Wray will be at the Myers hotel every Monday. He guarantees a cure and no money is required until the same is effected, to the satisfaction of the patient. Parties suffering with rupture will do well to call and see him.

Rockford, Ill., August 3.—F. H. Wray, M. D.—Friend: Yes, friend; for I certainly can call you such for what has been done for me. About ten or twelve years ago by lifting a sick man, I was ruptured on the left side, and have had so much trouble with it that at times I did not know what to do, and the doctors said it was no good, my age was against me, (sixty-four years.) I tried truss after truss; no good; nothing I could do was of any avail. I despaired of any help; saw your ad, and after thinking over the matter thought I would try once more. I took my first treatment of you on the 23d day of June and paid attention to your orders. Now, after a little over a month, I can safely say there are no signs of my trouble, and I consider that I am well. I can lift all the weight that my strength will allow and strain in my position. There are no signs of the old trouble. I have tried in all shapes to see if there was any buncb; but no. If anybody asks you if you can cure them tell them yes. I know you can. Respectfully, F. A. BUCKINGHAM, 508 Chestnut St., Rockford, Ill.

EARTH SWEEPED BARE BY THE CYCLONE

EYE WITNESS TELLS OF JUG PRAIRIE'S STORM.

Photographs Confirm His Tale—Black, Funnel-Shaped Twister Belched Hail in Great Banks, and Left No Building Standing in Its Path.

Photographs of the ruins left by the Evansville cyclone have been left with the Gazette by F. E. Payne, a Michigan newspaper man who was on the spot.

"I have always doubted the stories of the destructiveness of Dakota storms," said Mr. Payne today, "but when I found spots where three foot banks of hail had been piled up within two minutes I changed my mind. Why, five days after the storm I found hail stones an inch in diameter.

"How much rain fell it is hard to say. I saw places where barbed wire fences, posts and all had been carried away bodily by water flowing from the fields where no more is ever expected than can be passed easily through a small road culvert. Mix this deluge with a like quantity of hailstones from the size of marbles to that of hen's eggs, and three or four times the quantity of wind concentrated into a whirling mass of terrific velocity which destroyed everything in its course, and perhaps your imagination may be vivid enough to picture a semblance to the real, awful and grand, but it can hardly fail to be less than the truth.

"Fence boards were blown away, drawing with them ten-penny nails from oak posts; hard maple trees fifteen inches in diameter were twisted off and a considerable part of the one I saw had been carried thirty rods.

Had to Let the Windmill Out.

"A windmill went through the roof of Deremer's carriage shed and was found lying across a new top buggy. The hole in the roof was an attractive theme for questions, but one visitor was perfectly satisfied when told that the windmill was found inside and a hole had to be cut in the roof to get it out. West of Mr. Deremer's the corn field presented a pitiable sight, the leaves being torn in shreds, but I was amazed beyond description when on passing over the hill the ruin in the valley beyond, met my sight. Probably two hundred acres of corn fields lay in sight, on which there was not a stock standing. The appearance from the hill was exactly as if the corn had been cut up and carried away. Scarcely enough was left on the ground for a few disconsolate cows to nibble at. How it could disappear so completely was a mystery. It had been literally cut to pieces by the hail stones, and beaten into the ground.

"One man was able to give a vivid description of the approach and appearance of the storm. Three clouds approached from as many different directions. As they neared each other the center one became violently disturbed and suddenly sent forth a whirling central funnel to the earth, accompanied by an incessant strain of chain lightning. Then the funnel disappeared, leaving all clear in the horizon, when suddenly it was again seen to descend, and he had hardly time to run into the cellar when the storm ran upon them. The storm passed over to the southeast and in a moment returned to the northwest though this time with much less force."

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT.

Mistaken for a Coachman by a Church Sexton.

Mrs. Emily T. V. Sloane, mother of the young lady whose wedding brought the plutocrats of the country together the other day, is very charitably inclined. She determined some time last week to send a package of clothes to the poor fund of Dr. Hall's Fifth Avenue Presbyterian parish, says Philadelphia Press.

Accordingly she had the garments done up in a nice bundle and was arranging the finalities of the transaction with one of her servants, when her brother Cornelius Vanderbilt, arrived at the house and sent word that he must see her at once.

"Can't you wait a minute?" she asked. "I'm anxious to send this bundle down to Dr. Hall's church."

"Oh," replied Cornelius Vanderbilt, "I am going right by the church on my way down. Give me the bundle and I will let the sexton have it."

Mrs. Sloane was very grateful for this kind offer, and it is in every way characteristic of the man of millions who is never so happy as when an opportunity to be useful presents itself. So down Fifth avenue walked brother Cornelius, bundle in arm, and when he reached the church he found the sexton there.

The latter received the object thankfully, with many words of appreciation of the kindness of the great lady who had remembered the needs of the church.

Not so many days after this Mrs. Sloane herself, on coming out of church, amid a fashionable concourse, happened to espy the sexton.

"John," said she, "did you get that bundle I sent you the other day?"

"Yes'm," was the cheerful reply, "your coachman brought it Tuesday, mum."

OLD WINE HIDDEN AWAY.

In England the Old-Fashioned Country Inns Have Treasures in Their Cellars.

People scarcely realize how large an amount of fine, rare wines and spirits lies hidden in old country hostleries. Outside London few people care for any but sweet wines, and on this account clarets and dry champagne of great age and flavor are often to be found. I know a small hotel, whose name wild horses shall not drag from me, situated not many miles from one side of the New Forest. I found myself there once on a fishing expedition, and made friends with mine host, a typical inn-keeper, whose red face and extensive width betokened good living. We talked about wine, and he produced some of the finest claret I ever wish to taste. It had been in his cellar as long as he remembered. He also showed me some curiously sealed bottles of Hollands, undeniably old. A connoisseur would have taken up his abode there for good, and would have been well rewarded, says London Sketch. I have made very similar discoveries in Kent and Sussex. All these wines probably belong to an age before adulteration became a fine art, and long keeping has made them perfect. Nobody among the natives cares for them, and Boniface usually keeps the supply for the benefit of favored visitors from London. The spirits in towns and villages on the seacoast were probably smuggled on shore in the days when excisemen and smugglers indulged in hand-to-hand conflicts, and lent a romantic colour locale to the South of England that is sadly missing in these prosaic days. Nowadays, the lodging-housekeeper and divers unnameable little wild fowl flaunt proudly in the regions of our native land's forgotten attempt at romance.

SHAKESPEARE INCOMPLETE.

He Had Not Foreseen the American Type of Nature.

"It is not true," remarked he learned play actor, "that Shakespeare created all kinds of characters, for I do not find in his dramas any characters that bear any resemblance to the great Americans who have figured in our country's history. There is not in all of them even the shadow of a personality like Abraham Lincoln, than whom there is not a finer theme for some future American dramatist, able to illustrate the scenes in his career, from the Kentucky log cabin to the theater in which he was assassinated. Shakespeare has no George Washington, no Andrew Jackson, none of our heroes or sages, none of our many unique notables, and none of our wondrous women. His creations belong to many countries, but he never gives a forecast of the peculiar American product which came into existence centuries after his death.

"Few of Shakespeare's characters would ever have been tolerated in this country. We could not have Falstaff among us, or Macbeth, or Lear, or Caliban, or the ghost of Hamlet's father, or Ophelia, much less any of his royal or classical characters.

"We have had plenty of Americans worthy of dramatic honors, fitted for the tragedy, the comedy, or the historical play, totally different in their traits and deeds from the Shakespearean people, and the like of whom were never suggested or foreshadowed by Shakespeare. The oft-repeated statement that the play writer of Stratford conceived and drew all types of human nature and all varieties of human life is a fiction. Should a man of his genius ever be born in the United States he would find here an abundance of material for dramas as grand as ever were written."

Deepest American Mine.

The deepest mining shaft in America is not on the west coast among the celebrated gold and silver lodes, as one might expect, nor in the coal regions of Pennsylvania, nor among the "mines of the Montezumas" in Mexico. It is a common, everyday copper mine at Opechee, Mich., which at last accounts was far below three-quarters of a mile in depth. The mine in question is called the "Tamarack" and is reputed by experts to tap the richest copper lode in the world.

The Only Remedy in the World that Refunds Purchase Price if it Fails to Cure the Tobacco Habit in 4 to 10 Days is

Narcoti-Cure

It Cures while You Continue the Use of Tobacco.

The greatest discovery of the age!

A certain, pleasant, permanent cure.

A lifetime's suffering ended for $5.

Why sm ke and spit your life away? Why suffer from dyspepsia, heartburn and drains on your vital forces?

Stop using tobacco, but stop the right way

Drive the nicotine from your system by use of this wonderful remedy.

Narcoti cure is warranted to remove all desire for tobacco in every form, including Cigar, Cigarette and Pipe smoking, Chewing and Snuff Taking.

Use all the tobacco you want while under treatment, and in from four to ten days your "hankering" and "craving" will disappear—the weed won't taste good. Then throw away tobacco forever.

Narcoti-Cure is entirely vegetable and free from injurious ingredients. It never fails to give tone and new vigor to the weakest constitution.

Remember Narcoti-Cure doesn't deprive you of tobacco while effecting a cure; doesn't ask you to buy several bottles to be entitled to a guarantee; doesn't require a month's treatment; and finally, doesn't enable you to stop tobacco only to find yourself a slave to the habit of tablet chewing.

With Narcoti-Cure, when you are through with tobacco you are through with the remedy. One bottle cures.

The Narcoti Chemical Co.,

Springfield, Mass.

Gentlemen—I have used tobacco for over twenty-five years, chewing and smoking every day from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. stopping only for meals.

On Monday, February 4, I called at your office in Springfield, and bought a bottle of the Cure which I used as directed and on the tenth day the desire for tobacco had left me and has not returned.

I did not lose a meal while taking the cure. My appetite has improved and I consider Narcoti-Cure a grand thing.

Very respectfully, CHAS. I. LINCO

Mr. Frank H. Morton, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., late Inspector of Public Buildings for Massachusetts, says:

I used tobacco for twenty-five years, and was a confirmed smoker. In just eight days' treatment with Narcoti-Cure I was through with tobacco, in fact the desire vanished like a dream.

Very Respectfully, FRANK H. MORTON.

Alabama Underbids the World.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Advice received at the agricultural department announce that a manufacturer at Alliston, Ala., has secured the contract for equipping the city of Tokio, Japan, with water pipes. Manufacturers in England, Germany, Belgium and other European countries competed in the bidding, but the Alabama contractors secured the job. The water pipes are shipped to Tokio via Liverpool.

Bad Failure in Nebraska.

Dakota City, Neb., Aug. 6.—State Bank Examiner Cowdrey yesterday closed the Citizens' State bank at South Sioux City. The liabilities are about $30,000 and assets $23,000, with affairs in bad condition. This bank was the county depository and over $8,000 was on deposit. The cashier and principal stock owner has given chattel mortgages and disposed of all his property.

Texas Negroes Stamped.

Paris, Texas, Aug. 6.—News has reached here of a bad state of affairs prevailing in Delta county. One night last week every negro was notified that he must leave there at once or he would be taken out and hanged. This caused a stampede among the negroes who, being thoroughly alarmed, began to move out of the county at once, although good citizens tried to dissuade them and offered them every protection. Valuable property has been abandoned, and the scare continues.

Duestrow Murder Case Defense.

Union, Mo., Aug. 6.—Just before court adjourned in the Duestrow murder case yesterday the defense stated that it had introduced all its testimony, except the expert and semiexpert testimony. Just prior to adjournment the court held that a hypothetical case must be made by the defense before it rested and not after the state had made its rebuttal. The decision is considered quite an important victory for the state.

Rowe Extradition Case.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 6.—Copies of the Two Republics, published in the City of Mexico, received here contain copies of the correspondence in the case of Rowe, defaulting Poweshiek county treasurer. The assistant secretary of state says that the United States will not countenance any such evasion of the extradition treaty as Mexico has been guilty of in this case.

KOSHKONONG.

When the snipe are on the meadow,
 And the mallards in the slough
 And the teal are here in millions,
 Both the green wing and the blue,
 Then we love to be at Bingham's,
 And join the happy throng
 Of the shooters from all sections
 Who have come to Koshkonong.

In the spring-time, or the fall time,
 It matters not to me,
 I always have a hankerin'
 At Bingham's place to be,
 And it sets my heart to throbin',
 And my blood begins to thrill,
 When the ducks come in from feedin'
 And are flyin' o'er the hill.

When the sun is just a sinkin'
 In the clouds out in the west,
 And the teal fly in a skootin',
 Just a comin' home to rest,
 We feel a kind of changin'
 Of our old blood into new,
 As we see the teal and mallards,
 A droppin' in the slough.

When the boys come in from milkin'
 And the supper's cleared away,
 Then we all sit down together
 And join in hearts to play,
 We near the happy laughter
 At the jokes old trail crack,
 As he tells us of the shootin'
 As it was in long years back.

When the turkeys are a roostin'
 In the oak tree by the shed,
 And the boys have quit their playin'
 And tumbled off to bed,
 It's then we lie a thinkin'
 Of the morrow that's to come,
 With the snipe upon the meadow
 And our setter dog and gun.

When the canvas-back are feedin'
 On the celery in the lake,
 And the boys are just a-plannin'
 How a bag of them to make,
 We see the gentle rifles
 On the water all aglow
 As a float goes swiftly 'gidin'
 To the canvas-back below.

Then we hear a kind o' thunder
 As the ducks begin to rise;
 And there seems like many mill'ons
 As they scatter through the skies,
 Then you'll hear the boys a callin'
 And callin' at their best,
 And the ducks that stop to listen,
 Well, they're piled up with the rest.

OUT OF BOUNDS.

THE EDUCATION OF PLANTS.

More than a hundred years ago a Jesuit missionary found a certain bark (now called calisaya or cinchona) in use among the tribes of Peru as a cure for fever. This led to the discovery of quinine—its alkaloid and active principle. Or cinchona containing but a very small percentage of the active principle, the bark of this tree, under careful cultivation, yields several times the amount.

By the same method the Shakers of Mt. Lebanon, (N. Y.), have developed, both as to quantity and quality, the medicinal principles of the herbs from which the Shaker Digestive Cordial, their well-known remedy for indigestion and dyspepsia, is now made. They have persuaded nature to do for suffering humanity vastly more than she at first intended. As quinine is without a rival in its own field so this preparation of the Shakers is destined to become, for all the ailments of the digestive tract, now grouped under the general head of dyspepsia.

Some of the symptoms calling for its use are as follows: Distress after eating, sickness and nausea; pains in the head, chest, sides and back; foul taste in the mouth and the rising of an offensive gas from the stomach; costiveness and irregular action of the bowels; variable appetite; sick headache; ringing in the ears; palpitation and heartburn; loss of sleep; the "nidgets"; a tired and weary feeling; sore muscles, mental depression, etc.

To relieve and cure this universal disease (the source of most others), the Shaker Digestive Cordial is expressly adapted. Like quinine it is a specialty, a specific. Its good effects are felt at once. Unlike quinine it is pleasant to the palate, always effective, never harmful. For this the Shakers pledge their reputation as herbalists. And its success thus far bears them out.

BICYCLE FACTORY MAY COME Proposition From Harvard As to Plant With a $500 Pay Roll.

A bicycle factory with a weekly payroll of $500 was discussed by the Business Men's association last night. President W. T. Vankirk read this letter:

HARVARD, ILL., July 24, 1895. W. T. VANKIRK, Esq., JANESVILLE, WIS. DEAR SIR:—Your name has been handed me as being the head of the Business Men's association, for information. I wish to say that I have a party or parties who are thinking of starting a bicycle factory. They may invest $20,000 or more, and as I understand it the pay roll may be on the start $500 per week. Now what inducement in cash do you think they might be able to get there? Could there be had $8,000 or $10,000? Would some party be willing to take $3,000 or $8,000 stock? Also could there be a large factory rented or would we have to build one? Would you be willing to make a proposition and I would see to it at once, or what do you think about it? An early reply would oblige, Yours very truly,

A. MUNTZENBERGER.

The matter was referred to a special committee, consisting of George L. Carrington, John Thoroughgood and C. S. Jackman.

Secretary Frank C. Hazleton tried to resign for lack of time but his resignation was not accepted. Several new members were listed.

BELOIT BUMS' HOME IS NOT ENDORSED

JUDGE PHELPS ON RECORD REGARDING "THE WILLOW"

Thomas Wilson's Admission That He Had Spent Some Time at That Summer Resort, Resulted in a Heavier Sentence—Divorced Couple Disagree Over a Financial Trouble.

Judge Phelps went on record this morning as opposed to Beloit's summer resort. "The Willows." The ruling was made when the four suspicious characters the police arrested yesterday afternoon were marched into court charged with being vagabonds. Thomas Barry the capitalist of the quartette was the first man to be called on. He said that his home was in St. Paul but he wanted to get to Harvard evidently forgetting the fact that Harvard was south of Janesville while he was headed due north when arrested. The court convicted Barry and sentenced him to ten days in jail.

Thomas Wilson, alias "Sandy" said that he made his home in Green Bay and that he was headed for that place. The judge cross examined Wilson concerning his movements in Beloit and asked him if he had been at "The Willows."

"Yes," said Wilson, "I was up there two days."

Got a Thirty Day Sentence.

"The sentence of the court is that you be confined in the county jail at hard labor for thirty days" said the judge and Wilson subsided. Wilson is well known to the police and is said to be a "crook" of the first water.

George Parkins claimed to be on his way from Detroit, Michigan, and on his way to Milwaukee to visit a cousin that he had not seen for years. He also said he had been injured in a railroad wreck in Michigan City and that his ankle had been strained. He denied all knowledge of "The Willows" and begged to be allowed to "git out" so the court let him go. Parkins had a quart of whiskey with about fifty dead flies in it when arrested. He said it was for use on his ankle and had cost fifteen cents, and he parted with it reluctantly. Parkins was also possessed of a new pocket knife when he was arrested, which the police suspected him of stealing.

Good Man's Son Went Wrong.

The last of the quartette was "Frank Smith" of St. Paul. Smith's right home, the police say, is Harry Ide, and his home is at Manchester, Mich., where his father, a well-to-do and respected business man now lives. Ide is well known to the officers as "Lemons" and is said to be a hard character. He has frequently visited Janesville and had made Beloit and "The Willows" his headquarters for some time. Ide denied the charge that he had been at "The Willows" with great stress, for he saw what happened to Wilson. He claimed to "depend upon his papa" for support and said he had a chronic heart trouble, but thought he could get out of town in half an hour, if he had the chance. The judge told him to go. Despite the declaration that his home was in St. Paul, he was very anxious to transfer his heart difficulty to Manchester and promised to take the first freight in that direction.

Hines Must Pay Mrs. Lanagan.

A little misunderstanding in regard to settling the financial part of their divorce proceedings, resulted in the airing of the difficulties of John Hines and Katherine Lanagan—the former Mrs. Hines—in the municipal court this morning. When the divorce case was still unsettled the interest on the mortgage on the house came due and Mrs. Lanagan left Hines the money, $23, to pay it. Later she also paid a bill of $3.89 for him. She claimed that he was to pay it back at Christmas time, while Hines claimed that she understood, perfectly, that she was to pay him the money as a concession to forward the settlement of the divorce case and enable her to get the $350 that was due her without waiting for him to earn the money to release the mortgage. Attorney Wilson here appeared for the plaintiff while John Cunningham represented the defendant. Judge Phelps found for the plaintiff in the sum claimed, $26.89 with interest and costs.

BARN FIRED IN REVENGE.

Tramp Causes Heavy Damage on Smith Wright's Farm Near Evansville.

Smith Wright, living four miles south of Evansville had his barn destroyed by a tramp. The tramp asked a son of the Wright family if he might stay all night. The young man replied that it would not be convenient to keep him. The stranger then started toward the barn and in a few minutes was seen entering a field of corn. He had time to go but a few yards when the barn was in flames. Before help could be procured the building was licked up. The loss was a heavy one as there was considerable hay mowed and a last year's tobacco was still there. There was strong talk of the neighbors uniting in a search party to find the incendiary but the project was abandoned as the question of identification was brought up.

FASHIONABLE NOVELTIES.

Decorative Buttons of Paste and Pearl. Traveling Wraps and Capes.

There is a great deal of truth in what a recent writer says—that for a good many years fashion, its frivolity, its senselessness, its absurdity and its uselessness, has been the subject of sarcasms without number, each critic apparently trying to hold it up to keener ridicule than his predecessor. As a matter of fact, on fashion and its changes rest the foundations of commercial prosperity. If the old were as pleasing as the new, many factories would go out of business, importers would not go to the trouble and expense of importing goods for which there was no demand, and one by one industries that employ thousands upon thousands of persons would languish and die.

THEATER BODICE.

This thing which we call fashion demands novelty and variety, and to meet its requirements manufacturers and trade are ever kept active. Within reasonable limits, therefore, fashion, as we now use the term, means business prosperity and gainful occupations to the many.

Buttons continue to form an expensive and highly decorative article of dress. They are worn in both large and small sizes. Mother of pearl and silver in combination are much liked, and paste and jeweled buttons adorn evening and full dress bodices.

It is now the fashion at dinner parties in Paris to distribute to each gentleman guest a little before dinner is announced a card bearing the name of the lady to whom he is to offer his arm.

Long wraps for traveling and short capes for general seaside and country wear are made of lightweight plaid cloaking in bright and harmonious tints. These are serviceable and fashionable and one of the most practical styles of the season.

An illustration is given of a most effective theater bodice. It is of Louis Quinze broche silk, flowered with roses and leaves. The body of the bodice is rather full and is covered back and front with embroidered tulle, gathered at the waist and shoulders and framed by bretelles of ribbon that terminate in bows at the shoulders set on a choux of lace. The belt is of ribbon, the collar covered with lace and trimmed with a ribbon bow at the back. The half length sleeves are slightly draped and terminate in a frill of lace.

LINGERIE.

Muslin Bodices Over Various Delicate Colours—Fashionable Underwear.

Muslin bodices are a feature of the season and are an ideal article of attire for young girls. White muslin, lace or chiffon over a tinted silk lining is exceedingly pretty. Yellow is a color of the moment, and white over yellow is considered especially desirable. White over pale pink or leaf green is also much esteemed.

Lingerie in the strict sense of the word is again in great vogue. The term has for a number of years been used to designate the various garments of silk and wool, mainly colored, in which those women fond of new things have clad themselves beneath the visible vestiture, but now linen, lawn, nainsook and batiste have been restored to their proper kingdom and are the acme of fashion. Old fashioned women always wore them for the sake of their freshness and daintiness, and now every woman wears them, whether it is according to her own taste or not. Collars, vests and yokes of white wash goods are a part of the outer costume and are charming in their delicacy and freshness, for unless they are fresh and immaculate they are intolerable. Collars and cuffs are embroidered, trimmed with lace or insertion or simply hemstitched, but their cut, especially that of the collars, is often something wonderful. They range from the tiny, turned over band to immense capelike or battlemented garments that fall over the shoulders and nearly to the waist, back and front. White nainsook trimmed with white or yellow lace, brownish grass cloth similarly adorned and black batiste set off with butter color or pure white are all seen in great variety of shape.

An illustration is given of a gown of mauve gaufré batiste over mauve silk. The bodice skirt has a puffing of white batiste about the foot. The figure front of the bodice opens over a plastron of white lace. The gigot sleeves have puffed epaulets of white batiste and are finished at the wrist with lace cuffs. The collar is of white gauze, the belt of white faille ribbon with long ends at each side.

Dangers of Diphtheria.

One of the French journals, Revue d'Hygiene, protests against the too early termination of the period of isolation of persons who have had diphtheria. Two instances are narrated in which children with diphtheria were treated in a hospital, the one 8 days, the other 12 days, and after a most complete disinfection of clothing and effects returned home apparently entirely recovered, only to give the disease to other children in their homes.

Excursion to the Dells.

The last excursion of the season to the beautiful Dells of Wisconsin; an opportunity to visit the marvellous Dells of the Wisconsin is offered for Thursday, August 15. It seems hardly necessary to repeat what has been said in praise of this famous resort. However, we will say that its scenery is unequalled in the western country, and none should miss a chance to see it. This excursion will be limited to 400 people, and includes only Rockford, Beloit and Janesville. The fare for the round trip, including the steamer trip, is only $2. Train will leave the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway depot, at 7:30 a. m. It will leave Kilbourn at 6:30 p. m. for home. The "Twenty-one" Problem.

Here is a table of figures. The problem is to add any six of these figures together and make 21. For a correct solution a "sure thing" Chicago weekly offers a prize of several thousand dollars. All answers are accompanied by a dollar for a year's subscription:

5	5	5

As a matter of fact, the solution is impossible. Any two odd numbers added together make an even number, and six odd numbers are merely three sets of twos. In other words, one odd number added to a second odd number makes an even, a third odd added makes an odd, a fourth added makes an even, a fifth odd added makes an odd and a sixth odd added makes an even. Therefore neither 21 nor any other odd number can be obtained by adding together six odd numbers.

WILT THOU BE LONG?

Wilt thou be long? The workday is o'er.
The wind croons softly to the sleeping sea.
At the old spot upon the lonely shore
I wait for thee.
Home to his nest the swift gray gull is wing-
ing.
Through the still dusk I hear the sailor's song.
Night to the weary rest from toil is bringing.
Wilt thou be long?
Filt thou be long? The darkness gathers fast.
The daisies fold their fringes on the sea.
Time is so fleeting, and youth will not last—
Oh, come to me!
In the clear west a silver star is burning,
But sad misgivings all my bosom throng.
With anxious heart I watch for thy returning—
Wilt thou be long?

LOST AT SEA.

There he lay in the sunshine, a great black, noble animal, with his work in his world done. I was standing at his side looking at him when my friend came up and joined me.

"Are you trying to make friends with our old Brutus?" he said to me. "Ah, he doesn't care much for making new friends now. He would only like to find the old friends again that he buried long ago in that mysterious past of his."

My friend stooped as he spoke and stroked the great, soft head. "Poor Brutus!" he said. "Poor, old faithful dog!"

It was not much of a story, yet it was rather curious. About five years ago my friend and his family were staying during the summer at a little seaside town in the north coast of France. It was a quiet and rather dull place, except that the harbor was always lively with the coming and going of fisher boats and other brigs and such like craft, the watching of which was quite an endless delight to the children, who, indeed, spent every moment they could steal from morning to night down at the quay, staring with all their might, and often as they could doing more than staring, at all that went on there.

It was a fine, great open sea, that then in summer was pretty rough at times, coming tumbling often in great waves over the beach and covering all the pier with showers of spray. Charlie and Willie were always in a state of delight whenever those big waves were rolling landward. They used every morning, as soon as they went out bed, to run to their bedroom window, with little shoes and bare legs, to see whether the white crests were ere.

Of course they never thought of anything for they were very small creatures—but of the fun that it was to see leaping and rolling water, and of the delight of being sent scampering up the beach when some bigger wave than the last would run after them as it broke upon the sands, as if it were resolved to catch them and wet their stockings and shoes at least, let their little legs fly as fast as they would. "It is not rough at sea," their father and mother used to say sometimes in their evening, especially during one week when the north wind blew with a range, wild roaring and down about the pier the fishermen stood looking rough their glasses out to sea, anxious-shaking their heads now and then, and Willie and Charlie only grew merrier as the wind blew stronger. They thought that to be out upon the beach when they could not keep their footing, and when the very air was white with spray, was the finest fun that they ever had in all their lives.

"I wish it would blow like this for ever!" Charlie would say.
And then Willie, who was the youngest, and who never liked to be outdone, would cap Charlie's speech and cry with enthusiasm, "I wish it would blow ten times harder!"

One bright, warm summer morning, just as the wind was blowing a little upon the waves and to fill the sails the fisher boats put out, there were vessels coming in this morning as well as leaving the harbor. Several brigs had been expected for some days, and that the storm had delayed, got to port today. But there was one especially that among all the rest attracted the boys' attention. It was an English brig, standing on whose deck, as she came near, they saw a great, black, noble Newfoundland dog. The creature was standing upon his four feet, taking notice of any one, but slowly moved his head from side to side, as if he were only looking for something that he did not find—standing quite still, so that even when the boat touched the quay, and people came up and looked and spoke to him, he merely let his tail in answer to them.

The children had caught sight of him, and a shout of delight. "Oh, see what a big dog!" Willie had cried, and clapping their joyful little hands they started forward to get as near to the brig as they could. They saw several people round the creature presently, and when they pushed their way into the boat, they saw the dog was, with the master of the brig standing by his side, telling this sad little story:

In the gray of the summer morning, as was saying, almost as the French steamer was coming into sight, one of the crew of the brig had seen a little black dog dancing on the water far away. They could not tell what it was—it was indistinct for that—but they knew it might be a drowning man, so they rushed their little boat at once and rescued him as hard as they could. But it was no man. When they were near, they found nothing but this lost dog, floating on a bit of wreck, the spar of some vessel that had been foundered in the storm and gone gently down with her crew. They took him into their boat and brought him ashore with them. This was all his story.

There he stood now, dazed, half-dead, bewildered, looking with large eyes at each strange face about him, dumb through it all. As the master of the collier told the little story to the other pitying hand was put forward to stroke the big, black head, but the creature took no notice of any one of them, only stood quite still, piercing through the little group with those sad, eager, human eyes of his. "Poor fellow! Poor dog!" they said.

The children stood a little from him with grave, touched faces. They were gazing so earnestly at him that they did not see their father, who had come down to the quay—as he came often—to give a momentary eye to his young monkeys and see that they were not drowning themselves or getting into any other hopeless mischief, and who was standing now behind them and had been listening while the master told his tale. They only knew he was there when they suddenly heard his voice.

"What are you going to do with him? Will you part with him?" he called out to the master. Then the boys turned round, with a little cry. "Oh, father!" they exclaimed, and their hearts leaped to their mouths. They were afraid to utter another word. They stood with their lips parted with eagerness as they waited for the master's answer.

"Well, sir, I'm open to an offer for him," the man said, after a moment's silence, and then the children burst into shouts of delight.

Ten minutes afterward they were walking home with the beast between them. They chattered away as they went of all that they would do with him, what they should call him, how he should go everywhere with them, and how many things they would teach him. They held him by the ear and clapped his back and gambled round him. Who can tell what his thoughts were all the time? Who could tell them, as he walked on with those dumb, wondering, patient eyes of his, with the new voices in his ear, and all the old world and the old life gone from him like a dream?

"We brought him home with us in a week or two," my friend said to me (we had been walking up and down the lawn while he told me the little story), "and the boys soon grew very fond of him, but it is a curious thing that during all these five years he has been with us now he has never grown more than half at home here. I think he has been as happy with us as he would have been anywhere, and a more docile, patient, kindly natured beast than he is you never knew, but yet he has always to me been like a dog living with a broken heart. I don't believe for my part that he has ever forgotten that old master of his, whoever he may have been, for a day or an hour since he lost him. Look at him now. Look what a fine, human pathos there is about that tragic, silent face of his. Depend upon it, he is thinking of the old story at this moment, puzzling it all out again, remembering, perhaps, how he saw the boat go down and heard his master's last cry, if, indeed, it was his last. Perhaps he may doubt even yet whether it was. I sometimes think he has still at moments a kind of forlorn hope that the lost days will come back again and the lost eyes look into his once more."

We went up to him again where he lay and stood looking at him. He was dozing, with eyes half closed, in the sunshine, his black coat grown a little rusty now, his ears drooping, his senses perhaps beginning to be dulled by age, for he was old. He was not likely to live much longer, my friend said.

As we stood so he took no notice of us. He was thinking of other things—perhaps in a half waking dream living the old life again.

"Poor Brutus!" I said once and stooped down to smooth his grand old head, but still he did not move or look up.

"Ah, he doesn't care for that name," my friend said. "He will answer to it sometimes, but he knows very well that he had another name once quite different from Brutus. We have never been able to find out what it was. It is buried, too, with all the rest of his history."

We heard the boys' voices coming toward us merrily and their footsteps on the gravel under the chestnut trees. For a moment Brutus opened his eyes at the sound of them and gently moved his bushy tail. Then, stretching out his great fore paws with a peaceful sigh, he laid his head down on them and dozed again. We left him lying so, slumbering calmly in the sunshine, with his dogish, faithful thoughts perhaps gone dreamily back to the old days and hearing in sleep the old voices that were lost to him forever in that sorrowful night when the unknown ship went down at sea.—Georgiana M. Craik.

Cycle Slang.
What a lot of slang verbiage has grown out of the bicycle! The youth who talks boastfully and erratically is called down by the apt suggestion of the bicycle young woman with the remark, "Freddie, your lamp is out." The "road hog" is borrowed from old New England nomenclature, but "scorching" is of the bicycle's own lingo and means an undue haste in driving a wheel. The exhausted bicyclist on the road and needing refreshments suggests, "Let's stop here and pump up," referring to the fagged condition of the pneumatic. Bicycle girls are "bloomers," and "here comes my bloomer" is equivalent to here comes my girl. A policeman is "a header," and the cyclistometer is "the ticker." "He has lost his tire" is equivalent to "having tacks in your head" or "being off your trolley," and no doubt there is plenty more of the same.—Lewiston Journal.

A Ring of Pure Gold.
Dr. O. D. Norton wears a ring of pure gold that has never left his finger since 1849. In that year a friend of his got the gold fever and went west, promising to send back the first gold he found. He chanced to be one of the successful ones, and it was but a few months till Dr. Norton received a letter inclosing a lot of gold dust. This he had made into a heavy ring, which he has worn ever since, but which is now but one-third its original size. The sender, by the way, is now president of the Scientific society of California.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

LIVELY BUNCH OF BANANAS.

A Three-Foot Snake Was Discovered In It and Quickly Dispatched.

Tillisch & Co. received a consignment of bananas Wednesday, which were taken out of the shipping cases and hung up, says a Watertown (S. D.) paper. Some little time afterwards a lady was looking them over and discovered a snake coiled around the stem of one of the bunches in such a way as to be entirely concealed by the overhanging fruit. She was greatly startled and called the attention of Mr. Porter, the clerk, to the fact that a snake was there, and he immediately got a pitch fork and proceeded to investigate further. At the first jab of the fork the snake ran a hasty survey of its surroundings, seeming to be somewhat irritated at having been disturbed. Mr. Kean, who was standing near, hit it on the head with a stick he happened to have in his hand and partially stunned it, and it was afterwards dispatched without ceremony.

It measured 3 feet and 1 inch in length, its color a brownish yellow, with irregular spots of a darker hue on its back and sides. It is not known definitely what species of snake it is, but that it came from the tropics and is of a venomous character there is no doubt. It is claimed by some that it is a spotted adder, but we have not yet met any one competent to vouch for its identity. It is on exhibition in Duffin Bros.' window, being in a glass jar filled with alcohol, and attracts a great deal of attention. Mr. Porter certainly had a narrow escape from being bitten, as in taking out the bunches and hanging them up he is certain he must have touched it with his hands without knowing it. He is quite certain on one point, however, that hereafter bananas will be handled in that store with gloves.

FAURE'S EQUIPAGE.

It Is a Gorgeous Turnout Which Serves to Astonish the Parisians.

Writing recently a Paris correspondent says: "The president's equipage, when he drove to the course at Longchamps, was an object of general curiosity, which was shown in a friendly manner. It was preceded by the outrider Montjarret, whom M. Casimir-Perier engaged, but did not venture to employ, the public thinking this kind of servant smacked too much of the Second Empire. M. Casimir-Perier was a colliery king, and was thought to be strongly reactionist, but M. Faure, being self-made, is looked upon as the people's president, and can do as he chooses. The landau in which the president and Mme. Faure went to the races is elegantly built. Two servants in tri-colored livery sat on the high rumble. The team of four bays was driven by postillions. Montjarret, whose business was to keep the way open for the presidential equipage, wore a blue frock coat, bordered with gold lace and faced with red white doekin breaches, top boots, and a hat with a gold band and tri-colored cockade. In all but the color of the coat the suit was exactly like that of the emperor's outriders. Two men on horseback usually preceded the imperial equipage, but Montjarret served alone to-day. He had attached to his leather girdle a formidable-looking knife or cut-throat. The daughters of M. Faure, a lady friend of theirs, and M. De Gall, the private secretary, followed in the second carriage. The under secretaries were in the third.
